

Fereshteh Sedaghat

Φερεστέ Σενταγάτ

fereshsedag@yahoo.com

Fereshteh Sedaghat was born in Mashhad- Iran in 1965. She took the certificate of medicine from the Mashhad University of Medical Sciences, the specialty of Nuclear medicine from Aristotle University of Thessaloniki- AHEPA Hospital, Ph.D. degree in Clinical Neuroscience – dementia and post-doctoral Research regarding mild cognitive impairment from Aristotle University of Thessaloniki. She has passed training at Imperial College of London, Hammersmith Hospital, NHS-United Kingdom. She has been awarded by State Scholarships Foundation of Greece, IKY for her postdoctoral research also seven “first congress Awards” in different congresses. She has been working as a Nuclear medicine specialist in the Asclepius Diagnostic center of Thessaloniki. She has established her outpatient Memory Clinic in the city of Mashhad and has valuable experience in Non-invasive Neuromodulation, transcranial electrical stimulation, and she use these techniques in every-day clinical practice. Scientifically she is also cooperating with the First Department of Neurology of the Aristotle University of Thessaloniki. Dr. Sedaghat emphasizes that non-invasive cerebral stimulation is a promising tool in clinical neuroscience for cognitive enhancement and as adjuvant therapy in various neuropsychological disorders.